Why am I turning my chart into a nerdy spreadsheet?

Astrology is its own language, a well-crafted system, and an ancient practice. It's a cosmic code and a "mystical science" that's been around since the dawn of civilization. #Respect.

In this curriculum, we'll practice Modern Astrology: a fusion of ancient and new.

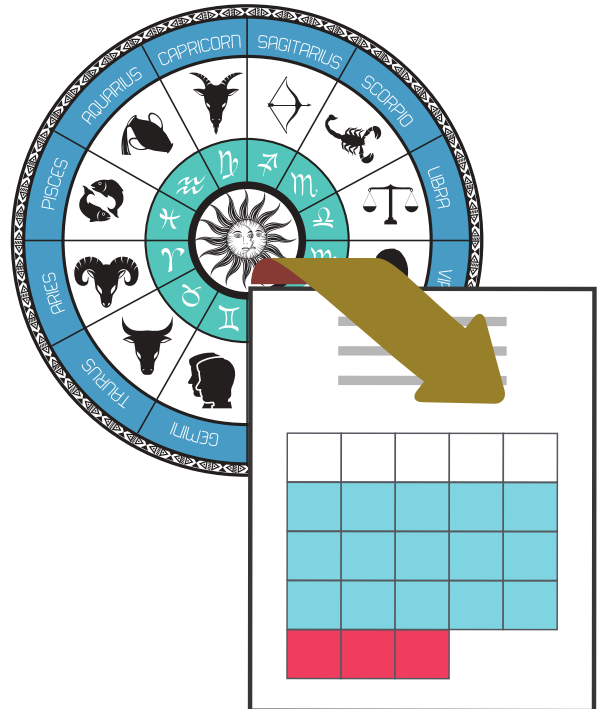

Modern astrology is a tool for our times. It tracks the stars and planets for life on Earth, now.

In truth, astrology has always been about the now.

Just as our ancestors survived by planting and harvesting by the stars, we busy 21st-century peeps need to make smart moves in the right time and place.

And like the old hunter-gatherers used to scan nature for possible threats—an animal that could attack—we need to grab this important intel quickly, too.

A 2014 survey found that the average adult makes 35,000 decisions a day (!!). Your chart can help you navigate those.

While we fully support you learning to read astrology charts, that takes time.

By charting your chart, you can scan and plan your path, turning 21st-century obstacle into opportunities.

Let the galactic graphing begin!

Start with your chart.

To cast a chart, you need

- Date of birth
- Place of birth
- Time of birth

If you don't know your birth time, check your birth certificate. Not on there? Ask family for their closest approximation.

Birth time will determine your rising sign and the houses of every planet. Without it, you may need to skip the 12 houses chart (or note that it may not be accurate if you use a closely-estimated birth time). Don't worry—there is still PLENTY to glean from the rest of your chart!
